

INROADS Puget Sound Student Association November Newsletter

Hello Interns!

I hope your weeks have been passing quickly and everyone has been keeping busy. It's amazing to think fall quarter is almost over, and we have already begun registration for our winter classes. This month's newsletter includes announcements, interns' achievements, and best of all, updates from past IPSSA events. I would like to think all the interns that came out and supported all the various officers in their activities. It was relaxing and a lot of fun!

Good luck with the final full month of fall quarter, and have a HAPPY Thanksgiving! There is so much to be thankful for, and may everyone find something different in each of their lives.

All the best,

Lanna Wei

Announcements

November Coaching Session for non-graduating interns ONLY:

Please email Anousinh your preferred 1 hour time block base on the time given below. The theme for this month is updating your resume. So all students are required to bring a copy of their resume to the meeting.

Anousinh will be on SU Campus from 11-1 on Nov. 16th at the Pigott Building.

Anousinh will be on the UW campus at the ECC Nov. 17th and Nov. 18th from 11:30-2:30.

Out of the area interns, please call/email Anousinh to give her a quick update of how school is going and also email her a copy of your resume ASAP so it can be incorporated into a resume round table at the UW coaching session.

Congratulations on Ryan Littleton for accepting an offer from sponsor Deloitte & Touche!

The students who are studying abroad this quarter include:

Matthew Reardon in Spain

Michelle Taylor in Spain

Anna Hon in China

If you are interested in earning $50 for minimal effort, please continue reading. INROADS/Puget Sound has a targeted recruitment program that will pay you, the INROADS intern, $50 for each candidate that you recruit, mentor, and help get placed with a sponsor for 2005. There is no limit to the number of people you can recruit and the amount of money INROADS will pay you. The current INROADS intern must recruit and train them throughout the process, until they are hired by a corporate sponsor.

If you have not started on your community service, this is a good time to do so. I highly encourage you all to participate in the INROADS organized community service events, volunteer at local INROADS functions (Talent Pool..etc.) or find a volunteer group on campus/community. Remember, you are required to fulfill at least 25 hours of service. Please don't forget to record your hours and mail Anousinh your community service forms. This is the only way for her to record your community service forms. If you need a copy of the form, email lanz@u.washington.edu.

Information on Fellow INROADS Interns

Joe Trieu won the local finals of Toastmaster's and will be competing nationally. Congratulations to Joe! Read below about his account.

What: Toastmaster's Public Speech Contest

Who: Toastmaster all-area winners

When: October 22, 2004

I got first place at the competition in the category of table topics. Table topics is where they put you in a situation and you have to act quickly on your feet. I won three table topic competitions to qualify for this competition. Toastmaster's is an international club for people to work on their public speaking skills. There are four evaluators. One person counts the number of umms, uh, likes, double words, inappropriate verbs or pauses, etc. Another person keeps track of your time. And finally you have someone evaluate overall speech content and delivery. -Joe Trieu

Read below about Emelissa Baluyot's success at a recent case seminar!

The Thomas J. Burns Seminar is an annual case seminar sponsored by Beta Alpha Psi in order to give students an opportunity to research and network with students and faculty across the country. Each year, one member from each school who has an eligible BAP chapter can elect someone to write a case and compete in Minneapolis, MN. This year's seminar and cases focused on the Conceptual Framework of Accounting Standard Setting. I represented Seattle University and came home with the 2nd place "honorable mention" for the Superior Manuscript Award. The event took place Oct. 22-23. – Emelissa Baluyot

INROADS Intern Events

Recruiting Event for WWU!

For the month of October, our big event was the Whidbey Island Trip. Each year Western Washington University holds a conference specifically for the minority students at Western. It is usually a 3 day retreat and we were lucky enough to have a slot to present INROADS. Six of us went: Stephanie Lin, Ben liams, Winston Lee, Lanna Wei, Clyde Strickland, and myself. We had about 10 people at the presentation and collected 7 e-mail addresses. It's a start and was a fun trip. We took pictures near the beach and enjoyed a great ferry ride. -Charisse Arce

INROADS Public Relations Event at KOMO 4 Goes Well

To kick off our weekend on October 22, 2004, we ended a long stressful week of studying and work with a fun event at KOMO 4's Northwest Afternoon program. For those of you who are not familiar with this show, it runs from 3:00 - 4:00 PM with segments that include soap operas, holiday trends, consumer tips, special guest, and numerous other show topics. By participating as a live studio audience, INROADS received a public service announcement about our organization during our recruiting season.

A group of 17 INROADS Interns, Advisor's, and Board Members attended this event. We enjoyed the humorous antics of Kent Phillips, soap opera host, and cheered Joseph Smith on his victorious win in the dance-off. Thank you to all of those who attended! We will possibly do another show and public service announcement in December. Stay tuned for more information. Once again, thank you to all of those who attended to create such a fun and successful event!

Community Service Event at a Seattle Seahawks Game

On Halloween 2004, Inroads volunteers for Treehouse for Kids, an organization that serves foster, abused and neglected kids in King County, Seattle. We sold programs, got our face painted, encountered people in interesting costumes, and watched a winning football game. —Vanny Chham
