The Association of Black Business Students is a non-profit student organization founded in 1970 which offers programs that encourage academic excellence, personal growth, and professional development. Students pursuing undergraduate and graduate degrees in business, as well as non-business students with an interest in a business career are encouraged to join ABBS.

137 Mackenzie Hall
Box 353200
Seattle, WA 98195-3200

Web site: http://students.washington.edu/uwabbs
E-mail: uwabbs@washington.edu

ABBS
Association of Black Business Students
University of Washington
Founded in 1970
Recruiting, organizing, assisting and promoting the interest and success of Black students in business related careers

What is ABBS?
The Association of Black Business Students is a non-profit, student-run organization founded in 1970 to support and encourage Black students who are interested in careers in business. Students interested in related fields of study are also encouraged to join. ABBS enables its members to develop leadership and communication skills that are necessary to succeed in both academic and professional settings. It will serve as a valuable support base for you while you are a student at the University of Washington.

ABBS sponsors workshops on topics such as resume-writing skills, interviewing skills, and other topics that are helpful to students when they look for employment.